FACTS ANSWER FADS

How many of us haven't wondered how our ancestors survived infancy and lived to become the stalwart specimens which they were without cod liver oil, vegetarian diets, and food faddists to tell them where to find their vitamins and how to count their calories?

The frenzy over food fads in the past year has been accumulative, and Dr. M. D. McNeil, who addressed the Parent Teacher meeting this week on child health, emphasized the fact that this frenzy has led to the distortion of truths until the fundamental idea has been lost.

To those who rebel at the increasing number of don't's and do's being laid down for our diets, and for those who live in fear of dire consequences when they forget these rules, Dr. McNeil's talk was refreshing. Entirely unorthodox in his views, he has faith in our instincts as guides to our food requirements.

Lack of vitality, lack of ambition, lack of intelligence, ill temper, poor judgment—and an endless number of afflictions—we have become accustomed to crediting to the wrong diet, too much meat, too little milk, going without breakfast—any number of incidents which bring the faddists' hands up in horror.

Along comes Dr. McNeil saying that meat is good for us—we ought to have a generous portion every day; perhaps twice a day. Sit down to three square meals a day and eat what you want, he advised, and that's exactly what our ancestors did. In defense of his opinions, he cited an experiment conducted with nine-months-old babies who had fifteen articles of food placed before them four times a day and were allowed to feed themselves with their hands. All the babies gained. We haven't been out of the spell of the food fadist long enough to wonder how many of them chose carrots and spinach, but taking a backward glance at history, it seems a practical observation that nature takes care of its own demands.

BUY AMERICAN

The "Buy American" campaign has been recently launched and is being backed by a half dozen or so newspapers in this area with varying enthusiasm. Unfortunately for the effectiveness of the campaign, there is no medium of encouraging the practice except through the pressure of public opinion. Unfortunately, too, public opinion is a sluggish medium at present.

The failure of conditions during the past few years to respond to our efforts has left us with little enthusiasm for any adventure, and we are difficult to convince of the practicability of the most obvious measure.

Until the present time few of us have given any heed to whether the commodities we bought were home manufactured unless we were paying a double price for "imported" merchandise.

The "Buy American" campaign may have its effect in stimulating an interest in our national industries; it may stimulate our national consciousness, but whether it will effectively diminish the demand for goods manufactured abroad is dubitable, as is also the result, for we are still eager to keep alive the demand abroad for American goods.

The fundamental thought in the campaign has not been closing American markets to foreign articles, but retaliation. England's parliament objected to the use of tabasco sauce for seasoning and instantly we say, "I'll show John Bull."

Possibly the "Buy American" campaign will awaken England to reinstatement of tabasco sauce on the British table, but we doubt that parliament's comment was followed by a substitution in all households for tabasco sauce.

DR. McNEIL ADVISES THREE SQUARE MEALS A DAY FOR CHILD

Tells P-T-A Audience Not to Force Children to Eat

With the statement, "We're going back to the old rule of three square meals a day," Dr. M. D. McNeil, child health specialist of Highland Park began a series of remarks in which he denounced the practice of forcing food on children and questioned the value of milk lunches for children in the forenoon. In an address delivered Monday night at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association.

The child should have three square meals offered him a day, Dr. McNeil emphatically stated, adding, "These meals should be offered and the child should be allowed to take what he wants, not pushed or forced."

Outlining the menus for "three square meals," the speaker named starch food, a glass of milk, and an egg or bacon as making up the breakfast. Regarding cereals, he stated that bread or toast will serve just as well for a starch food. "In some families there is a natural tendency to feel no desire for breakfast," he went on. "If the child does not want breakfast he should not be forced to eat it."

Heavy Meal at Noon

Dr. McNeil advised that school children be given their heavy meal at noon. "Meat should be offered them every day for it is one of the most valuable articles in the diet. A vegetable preferably of the leaf type, and a starch, macaroni, potatoes, or rice should comprise this meal he stated.

The evening meal offered the child should be somewhat the same as the noon meal according to the specialist. Concluding his remarks on the child's diet he advised that vitamins and calories be forgotten and not because children don't get enough sleep or study too hard.

Orange Juice versus Milk

Orange juice and crackers or cookies were suggested by Dr. McNeil as preferable to a glass of milk for the child's morning lunch. "Milk, because it is one of the slowest foods to move out of the stomach, interferes with the child's appetite for his noon meal," Dr. McNeil said.

Fatigue was the second point touched on in the address. The speaker pointed out a growing tendency toward fatigue among school children and said he believed it was because of too much tension and not because children don't get enough sleep or study too hard.

Isolate Child

"The child should be isolated for a half day every week from all his accustomed activities and from his playmates and his family. He will resent this at first, but after a trial, will realize that it makes him feel better. Some children require a half day of isolation in the middle of the week and should be kept out of school to spend the time in their rooms amusing themselves.

"If a child actually enjoys practicing his music lesson, encourage him to keep on, but if after the first six or seven months he has to be forced into the activity, he should be allowed to drop it."

Protecting the child from disease was briefly discussed by Dr. McNeil. At the conclusion of the meeting he remained to answer questions and

LAKE VILLA COUPLE ARE WED 62 YEARS

James Leonard, Sr., Celebrates Seventy-Eighth Birthday

Sunday was the sixty-second wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Atwell, but because of the illness of Mrs. Atwell with flu, the day was spent very quietly. Mr. Atwell is 84 and Mrs. Atwell 79, and up to two weeks ago both had been quite well and active and able to attend to their home and the duties connected with it. Mrs. Atwell is improving and will soon be able to be about.

Last Monday was the seventy-eighth birthday of James Leonard, Sr., and his children took the opportunity to have a family gathering at the Leonard home. It was a complete surprise to both Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, as their daughter, Mrs. Carl Reinbach, had planned the whole affair. Their whole family, with the exception of their oldest daughter, Mae, whose husband, Joe Eberler, had recently had an operation, was present.

John Leonard and wife of Lake Forest, Rose and husband, Jack Miller, Katherine and husband, Fred Hodgkins, and their two children, Baby, wife of A. Anderson, with two daughters, all of Chicago, Tony and family of Round Lake, James and family of Chicago, besides Edward and wife and the Reinbachs of Lake Villa, were all present to extend congratulations to their father who is quite well now and active.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Barnstable have moved from the F. Nader flat to the William Pester cottage on Burnett Ave.

Mrs. B. J. Gallger and Hugh McCann were called to Waukegan last week by the illness and death of their mother, Mrs. Thomas McCann, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Olson. The funeral was held on Friday. Mrs. McCann had many friends here who sympathized with the family in their loss.

The church board met at the Reinbach home Monday evening for its regular meeting and the same group served a baked ham dinner at the church on Thursday evening.

The Township relief committee held a public meeting at the Village hall Monday afternoon to give its report to the public and to discuss ways and means of carrying on the work for the remainder of the winter. No further funds are to be solicited.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Again Chevrolet leads the way to economical transportation! Chevrolet announces a greatly improved line of Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks—featuring a new engine. A new rear axle. A new frame. Many progressive changes in design and construction. And selling at new, greatly reduced prices that only the world's largest builder of cars and trucks could achieve. These reductions apply on every one of the 28 body-types and place Chevrolet trucks in the most attractive price-position in their history.

All 1½-ton models are now powered by a remarkable new Six-Cylinder Special Truck Engine. This is basically the same reliable power plant of last year—but Chevrolet has made it even smoother, more powerful, and more economical by the addition of 33 new improvements and refinements.

Chevrolet has also introduced an entirely new type of rear axle. It's bigger. It's more rugged. And it's capable of handling heavier loads. All because Chevrolet has given it the outstanding mechanical advantages of a four-pinion differtial and a straddle-mounted pinion with bearing support on both sides.

In addition, the Chevrolet 131-inch truck now has a much stronger frame, with deeper, heavier side members. The 1½-ton models have a sturdier universal joint, as well as larger brakes, improved springs, and a new 15-gallon fuel tank.

Nothing that Chevrolet has ever done before in trucks can equal the importance of this announcement: A stronger, more powerful, more durable six-cylinder line. Even more economical than last year. And selling at prices as low as $440. That's value. That's leadership. That's news which no buyer of a low-priced truck can afford to disregard.

This is Chevrolet Truck Demonstration Week. And special arrangements have been made to give all truck-users a demonstration of the improved Chevrolet six-cylinder truck. Take advantage of this opportunity to see and try the world's most economical haulage unit.

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 8.

The Golden Text was "To do good and to communicate forget not: for with such sacrifices God is well pleased" (Hebrews 13:16).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. Incline your ear, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live; and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David" (Isaiah 55:2, 3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus established in the Christian era the precedent for all Christianity, theology, and healing. Christians are under as direct orders now, as they were then, to be Christlike, to possess the Christ-spirit, to follow the Christ example, and to heal the sick as well as the sinning" (p. 138).

NATION'S LAW MAKERS SEEN AS HARD WORKERS

Banker Tells of Labor Put in by Members of Congress on Mass of Technical Measures

OUTLINING legislative procedure, Robert V. Fleming, President Riggs National Bank, Washington, D. C., gave the recent convention of the American Bankers Association a description of the difficulties and problems confronting the law-makers. Mr. Fleming said in part:

"The most important part of organization of the two branches of congress is election of standing committees. There are 34 standing committees in the Senate and 46 in the House. These are the workshops of Congress and the real work of lawmaking is done in Committee Rooms.

"The task of legislating for 124,000,000 people is a tremendous one. Of recent years approximately 20,000 bills are introduced annually in the two Houses. Only a small percentage become law, but they must be weighed in committee, accepted or rejected, per amendments, reported out, and then considered on the floor.

"Lawmaking involves about 95% of hard and unspectacular work and about 5% of oratory. Few tasks appear so easy and are so difficult as enactment of sound and satisfactory legislation. Few individuals in any line of activity work harder or longer hours than the chairmen of the important committees during a session. I have great sympathy for the members of Congress whose constituents expect undivided attention to every piece of legislation in which they may be interested. From my personal observation, they earnestly and conscientiously endeavor to do all that is humanly possible.

Public Hearings

"When a bill is introduced, referred to committee and printed the next step, if it is a measure of considerable importance, is to conduct a public hearing. The committee makes an effort to listen to anyone who cares to be heard either for or against a measure, although witnesses are frequently limited as to time. Members of the Cabinet and other officials of the Government usually testify on measures in which they are interested and furnish the committee information in executive session or otherwise. In this way the Administration takes a prominent part in shaping legislation.

"Due to pressure of work and the fact that it is impossible for members of Congress to be technical experts on every subject of legislation, the committees are inclined to give consideration to the merits of arguments presented in testimony and the recommendations of the Cabinet and other officials. It is therefore highly desirable, both from the standpoint of Congress as well as those affected by proposed legislation, that the latter have an opportunity to discuss frankly the effects of such legislation.

"We sometimes complain about the technicalities of legislation, but when we observe organized minorities endeavoring to force class legislation through one House it is a comfort to know such measures may be caught in the meshes of technical procedure in the other and there suffer what is termed automatic asphyxiation."

A Country Editor Looks at Banking

THE editor of the Norwalk, Ohio, Herald takes a somewhat different view of the banking situation from a good many people. His idea is as follows:

"With rents falling and unpaid, real estate does not present a happy picture. Nor does the owner of carefully selected bonds feel any happier, with a bunch of them going wrong. A lot of folks very carefully invested in preferred and common stocks in the finest companies in the world and have seen them fall to perhaps a tenth of what they paid for them, and no dividends at all. Some folks kept their money in savings accounts in banks, and some banks have closed and left them high and dry. But the situation is worth looking at very carefully.

"On government authority, most banks that closed were really solvent but for frozen assets and popular timidity. Gradually the closed banks are coming out from under, and depositors in even bad cases will get at least 50 per cent of their savings. That's tough of course; nobody likes to lose half of what they had scrimped and sacrificed and saved. But when you hoard and stink the roll of bills in a coffee pot or under a mattress, some plug-ugly comes along and burns your feet till you tell him to take it and welcome.

"And what about the great majority of banks that weathered the storm, met all comers and are doing business as usual, carefully and conservatively, but safely? What about the savings in those banks? They are a full 100 per cent today—and they are the only thing we know of at 100 per cent anywhere. After all is said and done, a good, well managed bank is still the best place in all the world for money or savings. Right now in Ohio the banks pay the taxes on all savings and pay their depositors not interest on their savings. We can't think, just now, of many other investments that are as safe as a savings account in a solid bank. Why, even a savings account in a closed bank is actually worth more today than most stocks."

Benjamin Franklin's Advice to Americans was, "Be Thrifty"

"If You Would Be Wealthy, Think of Saving as Well as Getting."

Franklin, that sage philosopher and statesman, preached and practiced thrift and saving. He knew times more meager than those today, but he arose from the penniless boy, who arrived in Philadelphia, to the rank of one of our foremost American heroes—and all through his foresight.

Remember that no matter how much money you have, unless you put some by for the future, you will never have financial security.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, outstanding figure in American history is distinguished chiefly by the characteristic of common sense. It was not so much his brilliance nor his versatility for which we remember him today, but his foresight in judging what institutions and methods would endure.

With our other early patriotic heroes, he was a founder of the government of these United States. He performed many noteworthy services for our country. During Thrift Week, observed in celebration of his birthday, Jan. 17, it is altogether fitting to honor his memory in advertising, for Franklin was the first to use this medium to an extent which precast its future potentialities. A few of the aphorisms which he popularized, are contained in these ads of Antioch merchants and professional men.

Thrift!

What is it?
Success in acquisition of property.
Household management.
Applying money to best advantage.

How acquired?
Know your own.
Don't live beyond your income.
Demand full weight and measure in return for purchase.
And pay your bills promptly.
Holding the respect of your creditor.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

§ When you buy for price these days you can never be sure.
§ It's unwise to pay too much, but it's worse to pay too little.
§ When you pay too much you lose a little money, that's all.
§ But when you pay too little, you sometimes lose everything, because the thing you bought was incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do.
§ The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot. It can't be done.
§ If you deal with the lowest bidder, it is well to add something for the risk you run . . . and if you do that, you will have enough to pay for something better.

A twenty-four hour blizzard, starting Saturday night, buried Antioch and the surrounding country in snow with drifts ten to twelve feet deep. By daylight Sunday morning one of the worst storms that has visited this section in thirty years was raging.

After the milk train Sunday morning, no more trains came through until Monday noon when one was brought through with two engines, the foremost having plowed through drifts until it resembled a huge block of snow.

Attendance at the M. E. Sunday was only eighteen with twenty-five out for Sunday school. Out of an enrollment of seventy-five at the High School, only twenty-five students were present.

Rural schools were unable to open their schools before Wednesday. The stores are entrenched behind banks of snow and the hitching posts were completely hidden in the drifts. Henry Herman worked all Monday afternoon and part of Tuesday drawing the snow away from the front of his barn and out of his yard. The E. L. Simons yard had to be cleared in a like manner.

Fashion Notes
RecipesOf Interest To WOMENHousehold
HintsTools Are Necessary
To Keep Clothes Trim

If you find that keeping your clothes trim and in condition for a well-groomed appearance is a dreaded task, take stock of the tools you have to work with, and perhaps there you will find the source of your difficulty.

If the snaps are off the cuffs of your favorite dress, you'll probably neglect sewing them on if you have to play a game of hide and seek for the snaps, and then the thread, and the needle, before you can finally sit down to find you have forgotten a needle and a thimble.

Every woman, whether housekeeper or business woman, should have a sewing kit of some kind. A candy box will do very nicely. It should contain needles of several sizes; a pair of sharp shears; threads—flesh silk for mending linens, darning cotton in shades to match your various pairs of hose, black, and spools in the colors which predominate in your wardrobe; a tape measure; hooks and eyes and snaps; and—plastic and linen strap ribbon are perhaps useful additions.

In addition to the sewing kit, you should own a good clothes brush, a shoe brush, if you wear suede shoes, and shoe polishes in the shades of the shoes you wear.

If you have a frock with light collar and cuffs, have a chance always ready on you will never be tempted to wear the collar when it is not fresh.

With washable gloves, glove stretchers for drying are valuable aids. A convenient hatbox where hats can be placed away from dust and protected from crushing is another.

Early Spring Frocks
Show Preference for Plaids and Checks

When in January when we have for years our fall thrills over smart dark frocks, and we have tired of getting into the same coat, a new frock which has a subtle suggestion of spring can lift a woman's spirits and give new exuberance to her mood.

These early spring frocks which appear before winter has really set in, emphasize bright and light colors and prints, and flares as a rule predominate among them.

Fashion bulletins for this year are showing plaids and checks, even in dinner dresses, rather to the preference of flowered designs. A leading fashion magazine for this month, however, pictures three charming dinner dresses in the spring mode in dull green and blue and beige with small flowers.

Blue Figured Frock
A wistful feminine frock for this spring is designed of cornflower blue crepe with small white flowers and is ideally suited for those afternoons and evenings when one wants to be too informal for tailored street clothes or the more elaborate after-five gowns.

A harbinger of the summer mode is designed of plaid organdy and in the simplicity of its wide shallow collar which slightly covers the arms, in the artlessness of its rippling long skirt and high waistline, is imprinted the spirit of casual sunny days and moonlight nights.

Prophets of the changes which will distinguish the spring clothes from those of this winter, say the full puffed sleeve is on the wane and will be replaced by the straight sleeve. An Antioch buyer undisturbed by this report, says she expects to see the flowing sleeves in popularity for some time, since women will not so soon relinquish a fashion which is so flattering.

Organdy Touches

Organdy touches on dark frocks are appearing in greater profusion and with more frills than last year. Necklines continue to hug the throat and the ruffled effects are flattering to most women. Organdy blowers for dark suits are also a refreshing note.

Fashion authorities proclaim plenty of double duty frocks this year, with extra scarfs, jackets and blouses to create a new costume from your wardrobe's most dependable frock or suit.

Washing Rice

White rice is often powdered to intensify its whiteness; a recent article on rice states: In washing white rice the housewife should take care to rinse it until the last water is clear. In this way she is sure that the powder has been washed off.

Flour for Stiffening

Many cooks prefer flour to cornstarch for stiffening. Fruit pies, rolls and cherry particularly preserve the fruit flavor better if a flour thickening is used.

Dessert - Luncheon Is Clever Innovation
Which Effects Economy And Novelty

It took the depression to introduce two new forms of informal afternoon parties to relieve the monotony of bridge luncheons and the party which starts with bridge and ends with lunch.

The cleverest of the innovations is the dessert-luncheon bridge. This type of party has been popular with guests as well as the hostess.

The hostess issues invitation to her guests to appear about one-thirty, after they have eaten lunch with their families, but forego one dessert. The party starts with dessert—and this type of party lends itself to the preparation of delicacies which take time since there is only one dish to prepare. After dessert, the bridge tables are brought out and playing begins. It is a clever way of entertaining for the woman without help and for the hostess whose friends watch their diets too carefully to care for a heavy noon meal or an elaborate lunch shortly before the dinner hour.

The bridge tea, the second innovation, is really an old idea blossoming out into new popularity. The tea differs from the usual afternoon party in that it is generally more informal, begins later, and has a lighter touch. Tea for the hostess who enjoys inviting small groups in for the afternoon, whether to play bridge or sew or just chat, is a gracious form of entertaining.

The tea table should be very simple, with tea, small, appetizing sandwiches, cakes or cookies, and pickles or stuffed celery. If the group is small enough, the hostess may pour and serve her guests from the plates placed on the table. If the group is large, the dining table should be attractively set with tea things and a friend may help the hostess by pouring.

There is a charm about small teas, whether because of the hour when they are served, or the informality of the occasion, which appeals to most women. Serving tea by freighting will make the afternoon at your home a memorable one for your guests.

Cinnamon toast, English muffins, date and chocolate bars, and cheese sticks, all are suitable to a tea menu.

Salt Rising Bread

From the cookbook of a southern woman comes this recipe for Salt Rising bread.

Beat one egg, mix two tablespoons meal, let rise overnight in a warm place. Next morning scald one pint sweet milk with one pint boiling water, add a tablespoon salt, add enough flour (sifted) to make a medium batter. Beat until smooth. Let this rise in a warm place.

After batter rises, take one quart sifted flour, add sponge and knead well. Make into loaves and put in well greased pans. Let rise, when almost to top of pan, place in warm oven, gradually increase the heat until bread is well done and browned nicely.

Washing Baby's Bottles

The baby's nursing bottles can be easily washed by filling them with a solution of hot water and soap chips and allowing to stand for half an hour.

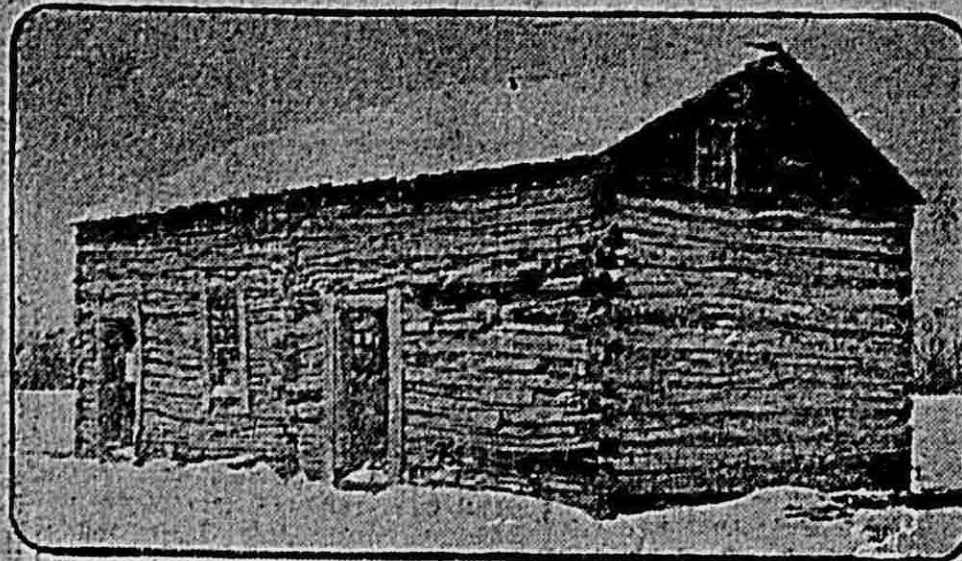

Cheese and Crackers for Dessert

Crisp whole wheat or butter crackers with your favorite cheese will often be a more satisfying final course to a meal than something heavy and sweet.

Keeping Cut Flowers

To keep cut flowers fresh for a long period, put an aspirin in the vase of water containing them. Cutting the stems of roses every day, being careful to make the cut diagonal will also preserve the freshness. A little salt in the water is also a preservative.

GRANT STUDENTS ELECT NEWSPAPER STAFF

First String Cagers Defeat Marengo Quint 25-15

A new staff was selected for the school paper, the Trumpeter, last Friday, when the commercial club met in a special session. Alzada Meyers was selected as editor-in-chief, and Kathryn Dankelman was chosen assistant editor. Other members of the staff are to be appointed at a later date.

On Friday night, January 6, the Grant cagers split in a pair of thrilling games played on the local floor when they met the Marengo boys. One of the largest crowds of the season turned out to see the game, and the band was present to back the boys. The second team lost a close game by a score of 17 to 12. The first team game ended in a score of 23 to 15 in Grant's favor. The following is the lineup of the first team game:

Grant	Position	Marengo
Watson	R. F.	Zenk
Clemensen	L. F.	Oberst
Klaus	C.	Russell
Jaul	R. G.	Leulin
Liljekvist	R. G.	Zickhur

Substitutions: Britts for Clemensen, Burdock for Jaul, and Johnson for Liljekvist.

Gerome Gurewitz, who has been visiting relatives in New York for the past two weeks, has returned to school.

Semester examinations will be given on Thursday and Friday of this week.

The commercial arithmetic class which has been offered during the first semester will be replaced by commercial geography during the second semester. The small amount of equipment will necessitate the class's being small. It will be limited to twenty members.

On January 3, three members of the Grant basketball squad, Klaus, Liljekvist, and Clemensen, together with Mr. and Mrs. Orr and Mr. Hodge, motored to Milwaukee to see a basketball game between Wisconsin and Marquette. The game was a thriller throughout. The traditional rivalry between the two teams stimulated interest in the contest.

Students in the American history and civics classes handed in their semester scrap books on Monday. Some very unusual work has been done in these books. Most of the

Tinted Glass Aids Plants

Seeds grow better under greenish-yellow glass than when under plain panes. So declare workers in a greenhouse in Germany that experimented with the tinted glass. Seeds planted under the colored panes were five times as productive as those under the plain glass, and also remained green longer.

Agricultural

Sweet clover plants found growing in newly seeded alfalfa or red clover may have been in the soil for half a century, states A. L. Stone, director of the Wisconsin department of agriculture and markets seed laboratory.

Former Suspect In Fox Lake Murder Taken In Chicago

James Clark, held in connection with the murder of Peter Meyers, Fox Lake handyman, last August, and later released, was captured in Chicago early this week and returned to Missouri penitentiary.

Clark was sought last summer immediately after the body of Meyers was found in a ditch near Grand Avenue and Lakeview at Fox Lake and he was found two days later hiding in a garage. He was released when clues to build up the case had been exhausted. Later it was found that he had escaped from the Missouri penitentiary and was wanted.

Dividend Printing

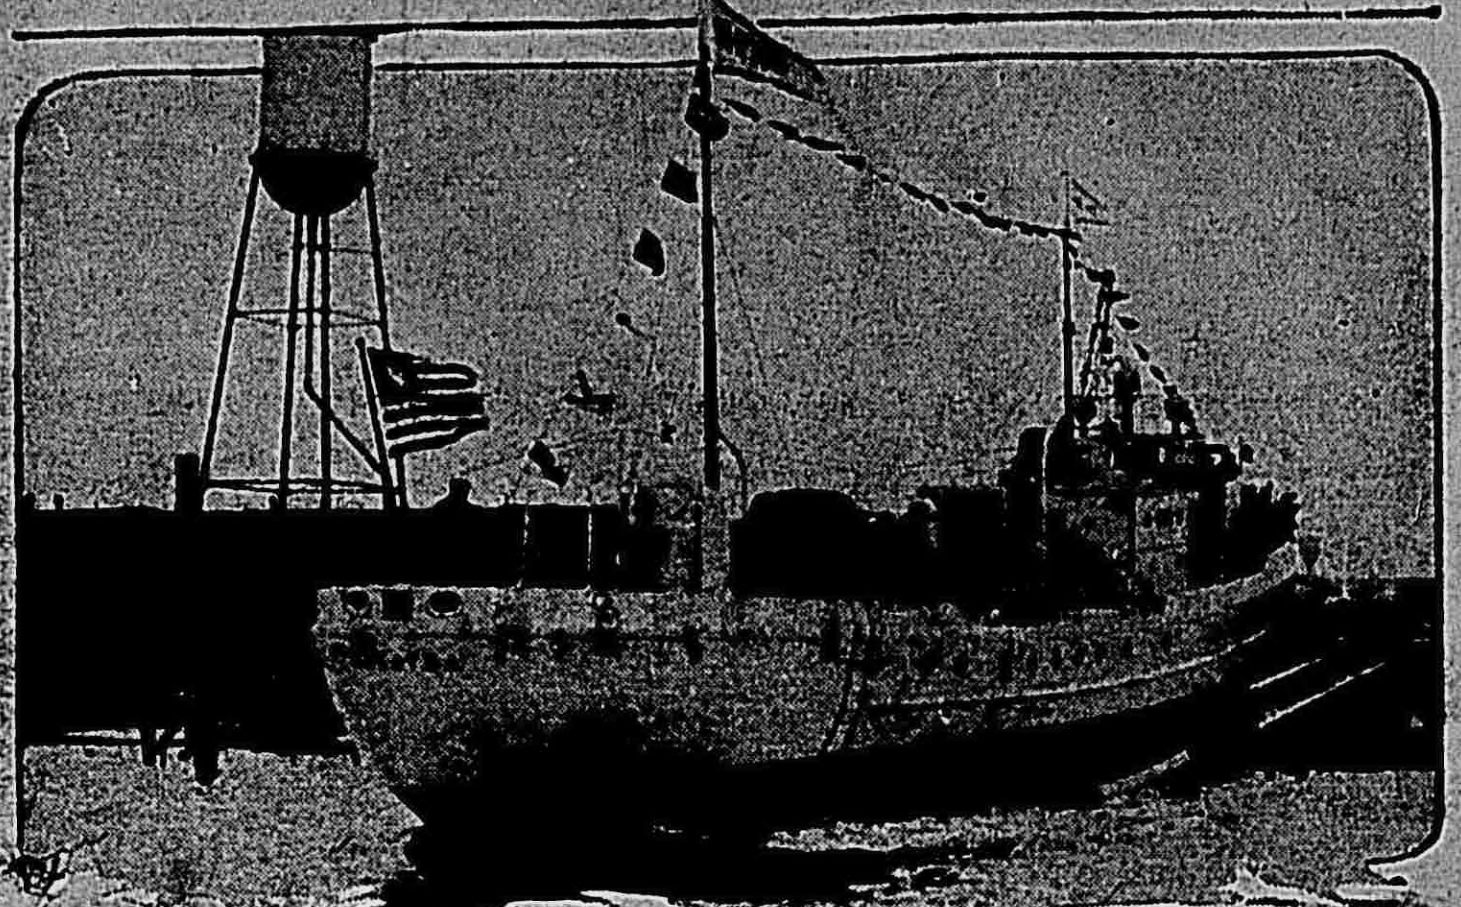

There is one kind of printing that you want—printing that pays a dividend on the investment.

A letterhead with right sort of type properly balanced is a real business asset. It wins the approval of the person receiving your letter, and while he is in this frame of mind your letter is read.

The same reasoning applies to any other job of printing. Neatness, the right weight and kind of paper, the color of the ink, the selection of the type, all play an important part in the production of dividend printing.

We are equipped to give you that kind of printing. Let us prove it to you.

Coast Guard Craft of Latest Type Is Launched

The U. S. S. Gladiator, Uncle Sam's latest type coast guard craft, designed for capturing rum runners, as it was launched at the Bathing shipbuilding yard at Camden, N. J. The boat is 105 feet long and powered by two Diesel engines. It will be manned by a crew of 33 men and 4 officers. Six more are to be constructed.

When Bees Require to Be Winter Fed

Matter Worthy of the Most Careful Attention.

Two methods of winter-feeding bees are suggested by H. G. Richmond, deputy state entomologist at the Colorado Agricultural college, for use in colonies where the honey crop was short last summer and starvation is showing up. "Winter feeding should not be practiced unless absolutely necessary," Richmond says, "because it disturbs the bees, causes loss among the work bees and generally results in unsuccessful wintering. Consider before feeding if the colony is worth it and if the bees would live even if fed."

Where the colony has a queen and the cluster includes four frames, proper feeding of canned honey in frames placed just beside the cluster of bees to replace the empty frames, is the only real satisfactory method, he says. "The honey should be partly liquid, the more liquid the better, and must be from healthy colonies. If the origin of the honey is not known to be satisfactory, it should not be used under any circumstances," he warns.

One or two standard full frames of honey should be enough to keep a colony from starving for six weeks, depending on how early brood rearing starts. If abundant honey in frames is available, six frames may be added and the colony will be insured against further shortage if the honey flow starts in May.

An emergency feed may be made as a liquid candy of sugar, with proportions of two pounds of sugar to one pound of water, hot water being used to dissolve the sugar. To each 25 pounds of sugar add one teaspoonful of tartaric acid. Roll until the mixture reaches 250 degrees F. Cool and add, by kneading, powdered sugar until a very stiff candy is made. Roll the fondant to a flat slab and place on top of the frames in the hive.

The candy should be very stiff, making it difficult to pinch off and the powdered sugar must be free from starch, as starch is indigestible for bees.

Butter Supply Must Be From TB-Free Sources

Cleveland, Ohio, has a city ordinance requiring that butter sold in the city must come from the milk of cows that have passed the tuberculin test. The ordinance became effective January 1, 1932.

Cleveland officials anticipate no serious opposition to the enforcement of the new ordinance. Tentative arrangements have already been made for the proper labeling of butter from tuberculin-tested sources so that it may be readily identified. It is understood that the term "tuberculin-tested source" means an area in which the dairy herds have been tested under federal and state supervision and which is officially designated as a "modified accredited area," that is, an area in which not more than one-half of 1 per cent of the cattle are tuberculous.

Limestone for Stock

Powdered limestone as a substitute for alfalfa hay produced satisfactory results in fattening cattle at the Kansas agricultural experiment station. One-tenth of a pound of finely ground limestone, substituted for two pounds of alfalfa hay, produced slightly larger average daily gains in the Kansas tests. The profits per head were also in favor of the cattle fed ground limestone.

The rations in which the alfalfa hay and powdered limestone were compared included corn, cottonseed meal and sludge. The tests indicate that lime may be satisfactorily supplemented with powdered ground limestone which acts as a substitute for alfalfa hay.

Old English Carnival

In October is held the goose fair believed to be the oldest existing carnival of its kind in England. The sheriff of Nottingham gives a big ball to which all the mayors and mayors of the land are invited. It is supposed to be held to aid the lace trade and each guest is asked to wear some article of lace, old or new, who in turn receives a Nottingham lace handkerchief.

The Brave Can Forgive

The brave only know how to forgive; it is the most refined and generous pitch of virtue human nature can arrive at. Cowards have done good and kind actions; cowards have even fought, nay, sometimes even conquered; but a coward never forgave; it is not in his nature.—Sterne.
